Detroit Institute of Arts

Voted #1 Art Museum by USA Today Readers in 2023. The DIA's collection is among the top six in the United States, with more than 65,000 works. The foundation was laid by William Valentiner, who was director from 1924 to 1945 and acquired many important works that established the framework for today's collections. Among his notable acquisitions are the Mexican artist Diego Rivera's Detroit Industry fresco cycle, which Rivera considered his most successful work, and Vincent Van Gogh's Self-Portrait, the first Van Gogh painting to enter a U.S. Museum collection. A hallmark of the DIA is the diversity of the collection. In addition to outstanding American, European, Modern, and Contemporary, and Graphic art, the museum holds significant works of African, Asian, Native American, Oceanic, Islamic, and ancient art.

1st Congregational Church – Underground Railroad Living Museum

Due to Detroit's geographic location, it was a prime location for smuggling freedom seekers across the border to Canada and freedom. Detroit's code name was Midnight on the Underground Railroad route. The 1st Congregational Church has recreated the path to freedom with volunteer actors and by recreating stops at Granny Franny's cabin, Junebug's carpenter shop, the river clearing, the Quaker safe house, the church, Finney's barn, the Detroit River. The main goal is providing learning/teaching goals at each stop to help tell the story. The Underground Railroad is not just African American history, and not just the history of the people of Detroit but really the story of our nation. You can also set up group meals in the Victorian dining room at the church. Time to Allow: 1 ½ - 2 hours Has the ability to host group lunches upon request
